NO. 67.

Some Truthful Remarks.

From the Report of the Quincy Schools. The usual treatment of young children in school is unnatural and almost barbarous. Instead of turning the full, freely flowing current of their active, buoyant lives upon the new work and into the new world found in the school-room, all this is repressed and an unnatural, artificial routine begun. Countless children hate school because their cheerful lives have thus been turned into the dull, intolerable treatment of school. I believe that a great majority of the children of the poor leave school at an early age from dislife alone. With all the abounding riches of nature at command it is entirely possible for good teachers to save every child from ignorance who enters the school-room. They can be led to love nature, books and study with an earnestness and energy that will never leave them throughout the school course. Teachers should have a deep and abiding love for children, and a thorough training in all the wonderful details of child-growth, in the laws and methods under which the faculties develop. Such qualities are rare, and when found, are of almost priceless worth. * * * A very large per cent of children who enter our schools belong to

THE CLASS CALLED DULL PUPILS.

Under ordinary treatment, by being made to feel keenly their dullness by scolding and constant irritation, most of them are driven into helpless stupidity in school. One kind of them when they come into contact with the real objective rule of teaching trade and business, often make the most successful men and women. It has been our purpose to save from ignorance every one of these children. The timid are made by the kindest treatment to feel at home in the school room. The faculties of the slow to earn are aroused and awakened by patient, persevering sense-training. This class often overtake and even outstrip their brighter companions in the second and third year. The defective minds are treated as a physician treats a chronic disease. The weak power is constantly but carefully exercised. The teachers understand that the highest test of good teaching is the successful treatment of dull children. *

WORTH THE EXPERIMENT.

Congress is said to be inclined to be generous this winter. Republican or Whig principles seem to be permeating the Democratic body, and internal improvements stand some show of encouragement. In this connection we would respectfully urge upon our delegation the great importance of experimenting for artesian water in Nevada. There has never been a thorough test made, and none of us know how deep we must go nor where the most favorable place would be for a beginning. If Congressman Daggett or Senator Sharon or Jones can get an appropriation of from $25,000 to $100,000 to bore one, two or three wells, it will be doing this state better service than passing twenty silver bills. This looks like small business for law makers, but there is nothing that proves the statesman so quickly as aptness for practical affairs. Nevada, it may be said to the intelligent Congressman, is not a mass of stony peaks and rocky hummocks. Ranges of mountains do not fill its surface. The hills rise more or less gradually from level plains or at least they are divided from each other by wide valleys, which would be very productive if watered. Nevada is a high table land, out of which crops an occasional rock forty or fifty miles long. On the west side of this table land rises the Sierra to a height of between three and four thousand feet, upon which fall every year the heaviest snows of the United States. Through cracks and crevices the melted snow feeds subterranean bodies which if tapped would send up streams capable of redeeming enormous tracts of land. If this matter could be thoroughly tested it would be of immense benefit to the state. If one good well were struck which would water a hundred acres of land at a cost of not more than twenty or thirty dollars an acre it would show what could be done and lead others to follow.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Reno is as good an example of the value of advertising as there is in any country. Let any one take a walk up and down the streets, and he can pick out the patrons of the GAZETTE by the air of life and prosperity which surrounds their places of business. There is that nothing pays like printer's ink. I may be wise to curtail when business is dull, but it is false economy to save lights, advertising and insurance. A small card may be advisable if times are dull, but let a man drop out altogether, and half his patrons will think he has quit or is going to, and he will drop out of their minds as completely as he has out of the paper.

There was a pretty row in Lyon county not long ago when a special reporter of the GAZETTE said Omo's water supply was deficient. Now comes the news that there is not water to run five stamps, much less ten or twenty.

PACIFIC COAST ITEMS.

Napa Valley, Calif., produced 1,700,000 gallons of wine this fall.

The first mishap of the steamer Solano at the Benicia slip cost the C. P. R. R. Co. $1,500.

The appraisers of the estate of W. S. O'Brien have filed their report with the county clerk. Stewart, the referee, values the estate at $9,655,459 27.

Ophir, Placer County, has a Turn-bucket Brigade some hundred strong who have thinned out considerably the undesirable element of that town.

Taylor's bridge across Bear River, on the Grays Valley and Colfax road, has been condemned as unsafe. There can be no running on that road until a new bridge is constructed.

H. H. Russell of Soda Springs, San Diego county, catches deer who raid on his garden at night, by means of a steel trap and a spear-thrower, which bell calls him to the field of action with his gun.

A girl named Josie Whitelaw was shot fatally at Teocote Hall, New Mexico, while riding in a buggy with an employee of Mr. Carr, en route to Bent's Ft. Her death was occasioned by the accidental discharge of a self-cocking revolver.

The Modoc Independent says that Germain & Co., of Virginia City, have purchased in the neighborhood of 3000 tons of hay in Surprise valley with the intention of taking about 1500 tons of hay east to that place to feed this winter.

Governor Irwin has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of a man, who is accused of having murdered Oscar Rees, at the town of Nashville, in Douglas county, on the 27th of last November. The reward will be given for the arrest and conviction of the person who murdered Charles Hallen in Sacramento county on the 20th of last month.

The Oxford Times says that "sweet girl (undergraduates)" with golden hair, are now a recognized fact at Oxford. A Professor of Husbandry at Somerville Hall—the ladies' college—is suggested.

The Norristown Herald regards approvingly the maintenance of the old custom of flinging an old slipper after a bride, but holds the practice of flinging after a would-be son-in-law a heavy boot containing the foot of the girl's father as despicable.

Henry Boyle of Monmouth, Ill., had murder in his heart, but lacked courage. In order to overcome his cowardice, he bought a quart of whiskey and drank enough of the liquor, as he said, to brace himself up for the crime. Then he shot and killed his enemy.
